Township Government

Chesterfield Township operates under the Township form of government which is comprised of five committee members who are elected on a partisan basis for an overlapping three year term. The Mayor is always appointed in January at the reorganization meeting of the Township Committee. The Township Committee derives from the state statutes which delegate powers, prescribe the offices and structure and establish various procedures under which the Township must operate. The Committee serves both legislative and executive functions.

The Committee meets on the second and fourth Thursday of each month at 7:00 p.m. in the Municipal Building. Citizens are invited and encouraged to attend scheduled meetings. A public comment period is included at each committee meeting and a citizen may speak on any given item on the agenda by identifying himself/herself by name.

The official newspaper for advertising all Township action is designated annually. The Burlington County Times currently serves as the Township's official newspaper. Please visit the Township website at www.chesterfieldtwpnj.gov for up-to-date information.

Township History

Our township was formed in 1688 and was later one of New Jersey's 104 original townships, but the land was settled about a decade earlier in 1677, by Quaker immigrants. The Quakers had fled England, primarily from the north and mid-lands, in order to escape persecution by the British Crown. The township was named for 2nd Earl of Chesterfield, whose seat was in Derbyshire, where many of the township's earliest settlers had lived. Until 1849, the township included what is now Bordentown City and Township.

The township is still largely rural, comprised mainly of farmland, and nearly 70% of the township's land has been placed in permanent preservation. There are no urban areas in the township, but there are three main villages: Crosswicks, Chesterfield (originally named Recklesstown, until 1888) and Sykesville. The Old York Road, an early highway ordered built by the Duke of York, the brother of Charles II, runs through Chesterfield Township on its way from Philadelphia to Perth Amboy and on to New York across the bay.

In the 19th century, the township remained largely rural, but did establish many civic institutions such as a library, post office, fire company and public schools. After splitting with Bordentown Township in 1849, Crosswicks then became the main settlement in the township and the seat of most cultural and social activities.

In the early 20th century, the old Quaker burial ground, located on the green in Crosswicks, was moved across the creek into North Crosswicks (Mercer County) to make way for the Crosswicks Community House in 1923. In 1951, a two-mile section of the New Jersey Turnpike was built traversing the northern corner of the township, and nearby the Albert C. Wagner State Youth Correctional Facility was built.

In the 21st century, Chesterfield Township land owners began transferring their development rights to a single development call Old York Village. Old York Village is located in the northeastern corner of the township and features homes constructed in the old colonial style and with some of the streets named after original township families. The new Chesterfield Township Elementary School is also conveniently located in Old York Village, just across from Village Square Park where many community events are held.

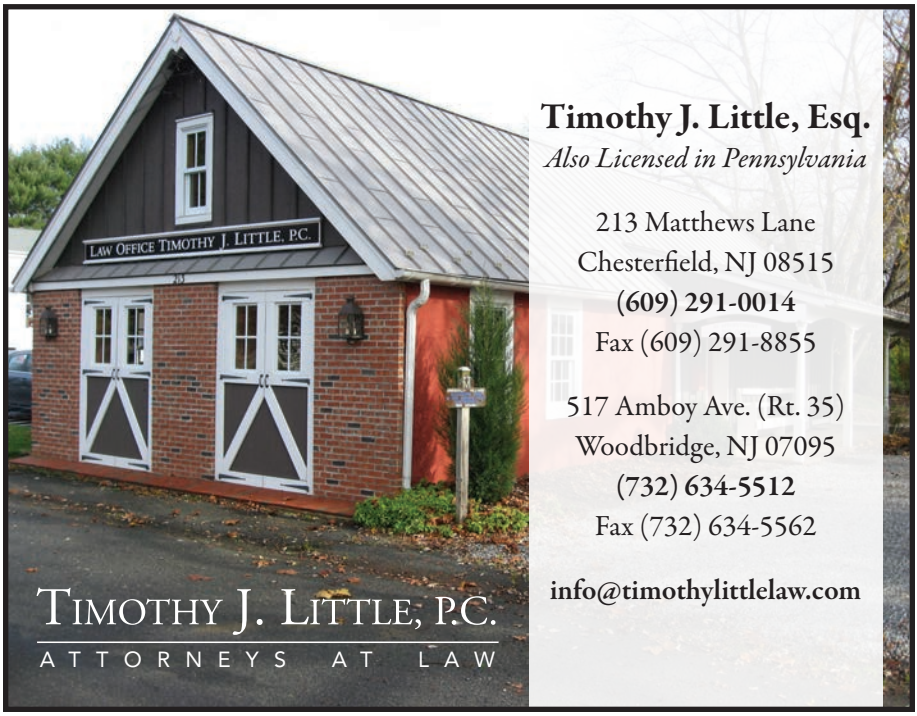
Chesterfield's Environmental Commission is committed to working with our residents and the Township Committee to protect our community's environment and natural resources. We also play a critical role in advising the governing body and educating residents on issues of concern in our town. Members of the Commission welcome input and communication from community members on any of these issues. Please feel free to reach out to any of us. We are here to work with you to make our town even better!



CTAASA-The Chesterfield Township Alliance Against Substance Abuse was formed under the Chesterfield Township Municipal Alliance in 1990 as part of the NJ Governor's Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. The Alliance members are volunteers who plan, coordinate and conduct alcohol, tobacco and substance abuse prevention activities as a community based prevention program.

The Alliance presents Community Education programs with the regional district, Red Ribbon Week activities, and the Summer Mentoring Program. The Alliance works in partnership with the Chesterfield Police to present the LEAD program to 6th grade students.

We are seeking volunteers to enhance the current programs and develop new outreach activities so all residents can become involved and educated concerning current trends in substance abuse. Burlington County provides ongoing training for volunteers as part of the prevention effort.

Look for the 2022 Needs Assessment for Chesterfield Township that will be used to assess specific community issues to better serve our residents. Please contact Brittney Chenosky at brittney@chesterfieldtwp.com.

Members include Janice DeJohn, Daniel Wolverton, Mary Wolverton, Anne Lawrence, Nancy Scarafile, Henry Krzewiniski, Denise Higgins, Denise Koetas-Dale.

A Call for Help...

We respond to calls for help almost daily, it is something we are used to doing, something we do well. Issuing a call for help is new to us. But... here we are calling for YOUR HELP. We need volunteer firefighters! The number and scope of the incidents we respond to has grown for years. The number of active volunteers has not followed suit. While we do have career staff, 70% of the week requires volunteer firefighters to respond. The number of active volunteers has been shrinking despite our best efforts to bolster them. So here we are, calling for YOUR HELP.

There are many benefits to volunteering. Such benefits include college credits for training courses, a District funded retirement account for years you qualify, and the sense of satisfaction you'll get from helping your community. The training is free, the work is hard, and the comradery is priceless.
